BANK DYNAMITER CAPTURED MOKELUMNE PROJECT IS STARTED

EMERGENCY WATER LINE BIDS ASKED

Directors of Eastbay Utility District to Advertise For Bids On Water Line

FAVORABLE DECISION SEEN

Proposals to be Made on Construction of Aqueduct West Of San Joaquin River

Anticipating the favorable decision of the supreme court on the Eastbay utility district bond issue, the directors of the district last night authorized the secretary to advertise for bids for the construction of the emergency line from the Eastbay cities to the San Joaquin river.

The purpose of this action is to have all phases of construction in readiness so that as soon as the supreme court has placed its seal on the district's bonds, actual construction on the Mokelumne system may begin.

Surveys are being made of the emergency line, the directors announced, so that it will be possible to submit plans to the contractors for bids by May 1. Their formal action was expressed in the following resolution.

"Resolved that the secretary be and is hereby instructed to advertise for sealed bids or proposals for constructing that portion of the aqueduct of the Mokelumne river project west of the San Joaquin river, and to publish the same on or before May 31, 1925."

The emergency line constitutes the first unit of the Mokelumne project and is designed to supply water from the San Joaquin river in the event of the failure of the present resources before the Mokelumne project can be entirely finished.

Eminent Speaker Here Tonight at Christian Church

Visitors at the mid-week meeting at the First Presbyterian church tonight will have the pleasure of hearing Dr. George Philburn, of St. Louis, one of the most distinguished speakers that has never visited Richmond.

Philburn was pastor of a Christian church in New York City for several years and is now a national figure in Christian church associations. He is a personal friend of Rev. Frank A. Woten, pastor of the Richmond church, and while on the Pacific Coast on special business decided to visit Rev. Woten and was requested to make an address tonight.

The regular service tonight will open at 7:30, and in addition to the special speaker there will be the usual song service and a special music program.

Surprise Planned For Rev. Wicher

Following the regular mid-week meeting at the First Presbyterian church tonight members of the church are to hold an informal reception to the Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Wicher, of San Anselmo. The Rev. Wicher has been acting pastor of the church for the past four months concluding his work with last Sunday's services. Dr. Wicher has not been informed of the reception this evening, which will be in the nature of a surprise event.

Dr. Wicher—Work started on $40,000 city hall building.

150 Business Men Campaign For Community Hotel Building

With the development of the financing campaign for Richmond's new community hotel, it has been announced that the campaign organization when complete will number about 150 local business men whom it is planned to enlist for this project. The program is being headed by an executive committee of 36 representative citizens which is already formed and holding meetings for the purpose of making all arrangements incident to the organizing of the campaign.

The large organization will be in charge of a general sales campaign who have not yet been appointed. According to the plan he will have four aides, each in charge of a division and each division will contain three groups of 10 men each, led by a group manager. This organization, with the executive committee, will give a total number enlisted in the campaign of over 150 men. The entire financing on the part of the large organization will be confined to one week, which will most likely be the latter part of next month, and will be known as "Hotel Week."

With the selection of the general sales manager within the next few days, the program of organization will be started and he will promptly enlist his aides, who will in turn sign up their groups. The organization from start to finish will be a signed one, making the program more definite, for each man signs an agreement, according to perform the functions of his particular position. This practice was started by H. A. Johnston, chairman of the executive committee, and has been followed by every member of the committee.

Ten Opponents Join Forces in Hetchy Stage Row

The question of direct motor stage transportation from San Francisco to the city's recreation camp at Hetchy Hetchy got a further airing before the railroad commission yesterday. Ten interests appeared to oppose the project of Colonel H. A. Green, army officer, stationed at Fort Mason, for establishing such a line under the name San Francisco Sierra Motor Coach Company.

The Colonel was on the witness stand all day, retelling shot for shot with the protesters against granting of his application for authority to establish the line.

The line he proposes would be the first direct one from San Francisco to the Margaret Mary Morgan camp at Hetchy Hetchy.

Late in the afternoon an armistice was declared by State Railroad Examiner Frank E. Austin, who is hearing the case, and hostilities were halted until 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The Yosemite Transit Company is making a fight to gain a permit to operate over the route chosen by the officer. R. R. Young, head of this line bases his fight on the fact he already has the equipment, offices and repair stations necessary along much of the proposed route.

Richmond is supporting the application of Colonel H. A. Green, and was represented at the hearing by City Attorney D. J. Hall, Mayor J. H. Plate, Harry Marcus, Al Furrer and J. H. Fitzpatrick.

ANOTHER GREAT WAR PREDICTED

By C. E. BERTHELE
Staff Correspondent of Universal Service.

PARIS, April 28.—America's intervention in the Chile-Peru dispute may cause a Pacific war with the United States and Japan on opposite sides, declares the government organ "Quotidian," which explains:

"There seems no doubt, whatever the result of the plebiscite, that Peru will declare war upon Chile in which case Peru will likely eventually succumb. But the local issue of the conflict is not the real danger. The real danger lies in the fact that the contestants are certain to seek allies."

The United States will be bound to either declared war or abandon Chile, which accepted President Coolidge's decision. The inevitable result will be other South American states joining forces with Peru, for American intervention is their perpetual nightmare.

The conflict between the two Americans will undoubtedly hasten a war in the Pacific for Japan only awaits her opportunity. This in turn will mean universal conflagration."

Many Speeders In Local Court

Police Judge C. A. Odell had five alleged speeders before him yesterday and he placed the names of six more on the court calendar for future disposition. The speeders were: M. Maria of San Pablo, $25; L. J. Hishop, Richmond, $15; R. H. Mathewson, Berkeley, $10; Henry Lixon, Richmond, $10; D. B. Mayo, Richmond, $10.

The six motorists who were arrested by County Traffic Officer R. R. Cheek and cited to appear before Justice John Roth are:

J. C. Fay, Berkeley; L. S. Carter, Oakland; S. O. Sheets, Vallejo; L. A. Brock, Sacramento; N. B. Navarro, Los Angeles; for speeding; H. H.

$500 REWARD FOR SLAYERS

With a reward of $500 offered for their capture, dead or alive, Floyd Hall and Joe Tacka, murder fugitives from San Quentin, are being hunted today throughout the entire western portion of the United States.

Circulars bearing their photographs and detailed descriptions were sent to sheriffs, police departments, railroads, and newspapers from the Canadian to the Mexican border, and as far east as the Mississippi river, by Chief of Police Bernard McShane of Sacramento. Already, according to reports, special precautions are being taken in distant parts of the country to prevent any possibility of the two killers through undetected.

Search by armed posses had today extended as far as Los Angeles.

The newspapers of the country now offer one of the most likely means for bringing about the capture of the criminal pair, according to Chief McShane. In a letter sent to hundreds of daily papers throughout the west today, McShane wrote:

An appeal is made to every editor and to every newspaper, and to every newspaper man in the land, to assist in the speedy capture of the two escaped convicts, fiendish double murderers wanted in this city.

We are dealing with criminals trained to glide capture, and thoroughly familiar with police methods used in the apprehension of fugitives. Every possible effort has been made to that end, all ordinary means have been exhausted, yet so far we have failed.

We must now appeal to the power of the press for aid. No agency in all the world reaches into remote corners of the earth as does the newspaper.

It is in such remote spot, no doubt, where these men have sought refuge, and nation-wide publicity will eventually land them in the toils.

Baldwin, Berkeley, cutting in. Sheets has already paid his fine of $15.

J. McQueen of Richmond who was arrested on charge of reckless driving, is cited to appear before Justice Roth this morning.

BREAK GROUND FOR FACTORY BUILDING HERE

Ground Breaking Ceremony of New Rust-Campbell Factory Held Here Yesterday

WILL EMPLOY 75 WOMEN

Factory Moved Here From Los Angeles to be in Operation in 60 to 90 Days

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new Rust-Campbell golf equipment factory were held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the site of the new plant at San Pablo and Andrade avenues. Mrs. T. C. Brown who is having the plant constructed for lease to the company turned the first shovel of ground under the supervision of E. S. Rust, president of the Rust-Campbell company.

The Miner Construction company is erecting the building, which is to be completed within ninety days. Fred Saffran, secretary of the Rust-Campbell company, Grant Miner, Jr., of the Miner Construction company, Joseph Barbee, of King City, one of the stock holders of the Rust-Campbell company and Frank B. Schumann, publicist manager of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, were on hand to see the beginning of the new industry in Richmond.

MOVED FROM LOS ANGELES

Negotiations have been under way in Richmond for some time, by officials of the Rust-Campbell company, for the transfer of the factory from Los Angeles to Richmond, which is considered a more central location for the company which already has a wide distribution on the Pacific Coast. Attracted to Richmond by the Chamber of Commerce the officials of the company received information on transportation, labor conditions as well as many other details which resulted in the move.

Actual operations of the factory are expected to be under way within sixty or ninety days, according to Rust. The machinery has been shipped from Los Angeles and as soon as the building can be occupied, it will be put into position.

SPANISH TYPE BUILDING
The building of a Spanish type, is to be constructed of hollow tile throughout. In addition to the pleasing lines of the building, the grounds will be so arranged, and beautified that it will be one of the most attractive factories in the Eastbay section.

Approximately seventy-five women will be employed in the factory at the beginning. It has been so arranged however that the employees may be increased to 200 within a short time as the call for the material manufactured increases.

All kinds of golf equipment will be manufactured as well as the leather goods, such as belts, cigarette and cigar cases, watch fobs and similar articles. Golf balls will also be made as well as clubs and carrying bags.

Six Candidates For City Council Tell of Intentions At Club Meeting

The first opportunity of the candidates for city councilmen to appear before the public and go on record as to what they stood for, took place last evening at a meeting held at the Lincoln auditorium in the business and Professional Women's club of Richmond. All of the candidates had accepted the invitations sent them, and occupied chairs on the platform, when the chairman of the evening, Dr. Rosa C. Powell, the president of the club, called the meeting to order.

The hall was comfortably filled, the audience being about equally divided so far as men and women are concerned.

After the singing of "America" by the audience, Mildred Bryant gave a piano selection, and also an encore. Dr. Powell then told of the formation of the women's club, and what it had expected to accomplish. The speaker stated it was her opinion that there should be a closer association between the candidate and the voter, and that such meetings would result in much good.

CHARLES F. BEVINS
The first candidate introduced was Charles F. Bevins, and he stated his slogan was "honesty and Sincerity." If elected he would be courteous to those seeking improvements, and do everything in his power to encourage FERRY RATE CUT PROTESTED BY RODEO FERRY CO.

Court action for the purpose of stopping the recent rate cut on their ferries, was started yesterday by Ayon J. Hanford and Oscar H. Klatt, officers, and stockholders of the Golden Gate Ferry company, the Golden Gate Ferry company, the American Tollbridge company and the Bay Cities Bridge company. The report that they have resigned as directors of the Bay Cities Bridge company, announced by President A. O. Stewart, was emphatically denied by both Klatt and Hanford.

The ferry rate cut ordered by the State Railroad commission was taken to the supreme court yesterday in the form of a petition for a writ of review of the decision of the commission. The ferry companies base their claim on the assertion that the commission has no jurisdiction to fix ferry rates.

It is claimed that only the board of supervisors has the right to grant the companies franchises. Unless the supreme court upholds the order, the Golden Gate Ferry rate will be cut from $1 to 75 cents and the Rodeo Valley ferry from 75 to 55 cents.

Stewart made the announcement of the resignation of the two directors in the Bay Cities Bridge company case Monday, but the announcement was immediately denied by Hanford and Klatt, stating they had not or would not, resign.

The plaintiff is represented by T. H. DeLap.

BANDIT ASKS $2,000, THEN HURLS BOMB

Dynamite Cap Fails to Explode In Sacramento Downtown Bank Hold-up

EMPLOYEES FLEE TO REFUGE

Chase Through Business District Results in Capture of Man With Dynamite Sticks

(By Universal Service)

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—With a jar of nitro-glycerin in his hand and twelve sticks of dynamite in his pockets, James "Cammy" bank bandit walked into the Sacramento branch of the United States and Trust Company yesterday afternoon and demanded $2,000.

"Give me the money, quick," shouted the bandit excitedly, "or you'll be blown to dust."

The bank employees sought cover. "Down with the fire of high 78," plosive on the paying teller's counter with a crash. There was no explosion. It was discovered later that the dynamite was with which the bomb had been primed failed to work.

Cammy fled from the bank and the police were soon in pursuit. A thrilling chase through the business district followed, none of the spectators realizing that the fleeing man was himself a human bomb.

Patrolman Collett captured him, but it was not until he reached the police station that the explosive was found in his pockets.

The bank is at Fifth and J streets, three blocks from the Central police station. Cammy walked in at three o'clock, just as the bank was closing. There were but few patrons in the place.

The police consider the man insane. He made no attempt to hurt his bomb at the police station where, if effective, it would have blown himself to bits.

Bank employees said he did not want for anyone to comply with his demand for money, but attempted to use his bomb as a scare.

He had already threatened the police he would have been effective had the dynamite exploded.

Cammy refused to answer all questions put to him except to give his name. An investigation was immediately started to further identify him.

Boat Cabin Fire Nearly Costs Life Of Picture Actors

A fire in the cabin of the Mississippi river keel boat, which is used in the "Prodigal Judge," which will be shown at the Wesley M. E. church Friday evening, nearly cost the life of Jean Patrice, who has the role of Betty Malroy, the heroine, and Chas. Eaton, one of the cleverest child actors upon stage or screen today. The fire was used as one of the scenes, but it got beyond control, and the lives of the two players were in danger. A voluntary fire department, however, and the cool, level-headedness of the charming Villagraph star prevented a catastrophe. The scene was filmed and the pair were rescued without any mishap. The story of "The Prodigal Judge" is spectacular, but more than that, the characters are live men and women with all their strength and weaknesses. It is the one big picture of the year and perhaps one of the best ever made for the screen.

A POX ON EUROPE!

A sane world will be tempted to exclaim with exasperation over the developments of a dozen plague spots in Europe, at the outset of serious work on reparations, as France is persuaded to moderate her demands and make more tolerable her occupation of German territory.

From the frittering little rebellion in Lisbon, the end of which is not yet, to the growth of a wrathful war cloud over the ever-turbulent Balkans, the succession of disputes and troubles is unending. Whether it will lead no man knows, but all men hope and some believe that the exhaustion of the World war is not sufficiently recuperated to permit of another widespread conflict.

Italy alone seems to have the raging reds in some sort of subjection, among the Mediterranean nations. That is because Mussolini has grown instead of shrunk in power as he exercised his mandate as premier.

There is no question that the Sofia cathedral outrage costing 160 lives was as cruel an act as the world has ever seen. In its immediate implications it is tremendously more horrible and provocative than the murder of the Austrian archduke at Sarajevo. But whereas the latter precipitated the world's greatest war, the Sofia outrage may not. For it finds Austria dismembered and weakly struggling to suppress the same devilish reds and to recover financial stability; no Kaiser rules in Berlin with his inordinate pride to egg on the brother-czar at Vienna. Nicholas of Russia is dead, a martyr to his time and kind and in his throne-room if any authority is exercised, it is that of a theorist, infinitely more dangerous to the world, but fortunately ringed about with suspicion and capitalistic nations.

The elements which united in horrible combustion in 1924 to burn half a world in the fires of war are either lacking now or are greatly changed. It would be foolish and perhaps suicidal to apprehend that these changed and remaining elements may not eventually explode with as terrific an effect as did the older ones. But we think not.

Of course no clarity can be expected in the picture we get from Sofia and the other capitals of Europe. Without doubt in our judgment, the fault of the communists is exaggerated and those of the militarists are toned down in what reports are allowed to come through. But in a world committed to individual liberty and initiative, the disturbing element is the collectivist, the communist, if you please, who carries his views to terrorist extremes. When a row starts, he may know he will be blamed for that he merely exists in proximity to it, if for no closer reason.

And the low intelligence of the peasant type in the Balkans is not the place where the world should expect rational outlook on these matters. Things are bad, no doubt, but the remedy is not bloody revolution.

MOTOR SATURATION

Henry Ford was asked the other day about the "saturation point" of the automobile industry, by a representative of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

"In America," replied Mr. Ford, "we have now more than 17,000,000 automobiles. People used to talk about 1,000,000 as the limit for us, then 5,000,000, then 10,000,000, then 15,000,000. Now we have 17,000,000 in use and in 1924 we produced 3,000,000 more. This looks like another large year. Our factories are turning out about 7500 cars per day at the present time."

So that famous saturation point—the point marking the limit of American automobile consumption—recedes and recedes. There are always people buying cars who never felt able to have them before; there are always people who have got along with one car jumping to two; there are always new millions growing up to earn and drive. The annual scrapping of motor cars in itself makes a market now for three or four million new cars every year. The additional production is readily absorbed. No other industry has had the sustained boom that the automotive industry has enjoyed.

Eventually, though, Mr. Ford admits, the inevitable must happen, with production expanding so rapidly. What then? New worlds to conquer! The United States now has four-fifths of the world's automobiles and only one-fifteenth of the world's people. As the rest of the civilized world recovers from the war it will afford a big, growing market. Our manufacturers, he says, will keep right on and make cars for the world. All of which sounds reasonable.

It is reported that Bryan is contemplating running for the United States Congress from Florida. Which goes to show that if he can't live in the end of Pennsylvania avenue he is willing to try the other.

Nathan Hale, who regretted that he had but one life to give to his country, wins as his monument a half-cent postage stamp.

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

DRESS By MARY MARSHALL

Fine Workmanship Again Characterizes the Frocks Made By High-class Dressmakers.

A FRENCH authority on dress, who has seen practically all of the collections of clothes shown by the well-known Paris dressmakers, concludes that the two most striking things about these new clothes are the shortness of the skirts and the guile of embroidery and beading. You find it in antieries, shirtings, ruffles, pipings and appliques. It is a subtle part of each frock, and safeguards these finely wrought frocks against close imitation by the maker of cheap machine-made clothes. You may follow such a track in line and color scheme and duplicate the material, but the general effect will not be the same, for machines have never yet been devised that give the same effect as well-trained fingers and the machine worker cannot compare the quality to a track that can be given by the hand worker.

Especially does the summer frock lean toward the workmanship. The French who makes her own frocks would take advantage of this situation. Fine needlework on a long, oval or batwing ought to be a pleasant order from inimitable and movements spent over cross-stitch, ruffles, and appliques. The work shows a curving hand-made touch of yellow, trimmed with cream lace, the frock-line, drawn work, and eyelet embroidery. The fine, delicate, delicate, give this frock a distinctly new expression.

This fondness for fine hand work extends to the French of millinery, and on all of millinery is achieved on many simple but left or straw hats by a trimming until showing fine workmanship.

This interest in fine workmanship is much more than a fad. It is the sign of a return to normal conditions. French dressmakers have for generations made much of the subtle touch of hand work. It has always been one of the things that makes a dress look "french" this bit of fine hand work.

With the war and the shortage of labor during and after the war, there was far less work on the frocks put out by the French dressmakers. Dresses were put together hastily, and the mode required that required very little fine workmanship. Gradually the French dressmakers have been getting back to their old standards and again the very best type of French frock is the one that shows much and fine workmanship.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

WISE AND OTHERWISE By MARY MARSHALL

THE WAITRESS IN KITCHENS DO you suppose that the time will come when the conventional costume for the waitress will possess knickerbockers or breeches in place of the time-honored skirt?

Recently an American restaurant manager decreed that the waitresses in his employ should wear knickers and they took it with the flippers. The knicker costume they found comfortable and not unbecoming. From the employer's point of view, it has the advantage of making possible greater speed and more efficiency.

Some time back, waitresses at one of the large London restaurants had "gone into knickers." In that fastidious a smart uniform was adopted, consisting of the rather full breeches, a jumper blue with a button and a sort of sailor's cap with a red ribbon at the side.

Now quite a stir has been raised in Paris since the waitresses of several of the Montmartre restaurants have established uniforms of breeches and blouses. To keep the effect from being in the least masculine a genuine lace cap goes with it. The breeches are rather full with a flared strip down one side.

The fact that a few restaurants provide the novelty of waitresses in breeches is not especially significant in itself. But the question is raised in real earnest, whether or not the fashion will spread until the usual costume for the waitress will be of this sort.

WHERE IT STARTED

CANCELLATIONS
The word "cancel" comes from the Latin cancellus, meaning a lattice-work, because of the use of crossed lines to mark out an entry, making a result like a lattice or grill. Thus "crossing out" means literally what it says—to mark out with a cross, or a series of crosses, forming a lattice. A cancellor was originally a "canceler" one who cancelled wrong entries in state books.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

SALLY LEE, a public stenographer in a fashionable hotel took the place of a professional dancer who was injured, and danced on one day with

DEROME, who is famous on the vaudeville stage, just before leaving to marry

TOM PORTER, a young real-estate salesman who is bitterly jealous of the dancer. She finds time heavy on her hands in the hotel apartment and wants to go back to work but he disapproves. When he sees his job they have to go to his sister's to live.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

IX—A ROUNDABOUT VICTORY

EMILY was very gracious about letting Tom and Sally come to stay with her until Tom could get a job and Jack acted as though the whole thing were a lark of their own planning.

"Emily and I are old married folks now—let's see it's been six, or is it seven, months since we were married," Sally said.

Emily, hugging him, just as if you didn't know to the day and hour how long we've been married."

"Well, anyway, as I was saying," Jack went on beaming at her with approval, "we've been married so long we really need some company and amusement—and now here you are. Maybe we can play cards in the evening."

Sally let her lip to keep back the tears. They were being so dear and kind and she knew how precious their long evenings alone had been to them. Inwardly she prayed that Tom would get a job right away so that they could stop imposing on his sister.

But although Tom got jobs of various sorts from day to day, he never kept them long and never made more than a few dollars at them. Just as soon as he got a job, seeing office equipment he ran into an old friend who was starting a radio supply store and took a job with him.

That evening he was not only optimistic, he talked in big figures, and spoke slightly of the vision of a business run and try for big profits and a business of their own.

Sally wished for him to put on such airs before the people to whom he was so terribly indebted. He talked in terms of thousands when he hadn't even paid his share of the rent.

His days of bragging soon passed, for the friend abruptly went out of business and back to a job with a large organization, leaving Tom footless and without any income again.

Sally and Sally, with pride when she saw how he poured over his books at night, striving to memorize the seemingly endless details of the business. It would not be long now before he would be making money. But just as earnestly as he had taken up insurance, he went into selling advertising, and gradually the conviction grew on Sally that the habit of being a failure was getting a grip on him.

"I simply can't stand it," Sally

finally blurted out to Emily. "Don't you think it would be better if I went back to work? Then I could pay you our board until Tom gets a position. I simply can't go on imposing on you this way."

But Emily begged her not even to think of such a course. "It's a husband's place to be the breadwinner," she insisted. "And you will just ruin your whole married life if you humiliate him in this way. Why the thought of going back to work has never occurred to me since I married Jack."

"But wouldn't it be if he couldn't get a job and you had to go to live with his sister? Oh, I am sure you would, Emily. You've been so good to me, but—"

Emily descended her from mentioning the matter to Tom just then, and the weeks dragged on with no hope of a permanent job for Tom in sight. Sally began to feel that she was keeping Emily in a small way for all her hospitality for Emily was all and Sally insisted on doing all the housework.

Finally, one day when Sally was just beginning preparations for dinner, Emily came into the kitchen and dumping into a chair burst out, "I hate to do this, but there is something I must tell you. I am going to have a baby. We're going to need your room. You don't need to go right away, of course, but I thought I ought to tell you. Won't you be so good to—"

Sally, said, "Emily, hugging him, just as if you didn't know to the day and hour how long we've been married."

Jack went on beaming at her with approval, "we've been married so long we really need some company and amusement—and now here you are. Maybe we can play cards in the evening."

But just as earnestly as he had taken up insurance, he went into selling advertising, and gradually the conviction grew on Sally that the habit of being a failure was getting a grip on him.

"I simply can't stand it," Sally

finally blurted out to Emily. "Don't you think it would be better if I went back to work? Then I could pay you our board until Tom gets a position. I simply can't go on imposing on you this way."

But Emily begged her not even to think of such a course. "It's a husband's place to be the breadwinner," she insisted. "And you will just ruin your whole married life if you humiliate him in this way. Why the thought of going back to work has never occurred to me since I married Jack."

"But wouldn't it be if he couldn't get a job and you had to go to live with his sister? Oh, I am sure you would, Emily. You've been so good to me, but—"

Emily descended her from mentioning the matter to Tom just then, and the weeks dragged on with no hope of a permanent job for Tom in sight. Sally began to feel that she was keeping Emily in a small way for all her hospitality for Emily was all and Sally insisted on doing all the housework.

VIOLET DARE

"Won't you let me go back to work?"

Sally spoke to Tom about it tonight?" Sally whirled around, her hands still damp from peeling potatoes, and begged Emily.

"Oh how wonderful! You must be awfully happy. And don't worry about us. I'll tell Tom tonight and I am sure he will get out and find some thing. Maybe it has been too easy for him falling back on your hospitality. There then, don't cry. There's nothing to be worried about."

But when Sally saw how thunder-struck Tom was at the thought of their having no money and no place to live, she too was troubled. Into the night they talked, going over every possibility again and again. But Tom had tried everything. He didn't know where to look for a job.

Finally Sally got up her nerve to speak and blurted out, "Oh Tom, won't you let me go back to work, just for awhile? Mr. Stone said I could always come back to the Diplomat, that they would always have a job for me."

And Tom, crushed, nodded assent.

BAKERSFIELD—"Bakersfield Californian" to erect $100,000 building.

Colleen Moore in "Sally" Starts Today at The California Theatre

Colleen-Moore and Leon Errol in "Sally"

Let a star of the legitimate stage once achieve a hit in some Broadway play, and forever after her successors in that particular role must be blonde, if she was a blonde, stout, if she was stout, or tall, if she was tall.

But not in the movies. A striking case in point is that of "Sally," First National's newest starring vehicle for Colleen Moore, which is shown at the California Theatre starting today. This was adapted from the Ziegfeld musical comedy success of the same title.

In the screen version of "Sally," the star, Colleen Moore, is a distinct brunette. There isn't any suggestion of the "Sally" presented by Marilyn Miller, in so far as look and act are concerned. Miss Moore gives her own inimitable, back-haired interpretation of the part, which is declared to win her greater recognition than did even such hits as "The Perfect Flapper" and "Flaming Youth." Lloyd Hughes and Leon Errol, Broadway comedians, head the supporting cast.

Other features on the same program include "The Gypsy," a Christie comedy; "International News," Larry Canada at the microphone; and offering "Musical Ideas" of "Sally."

Father Freed On His Promise To Support Children

Promises by Ray Carter, 25, 41 Corinto, that he would properly provide for his two children, won him probation of one year yesterday after he had pleaded guilty before Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado to a charge of failure to provide for the youngsters. The charges were preferred by Carter's wife.

TO BE BUILT IN BERLIN

The National Association of German officers, led by Colonel von Struensee, has started a collection of funds for the erection of such monument.

It is proposed to take a statue of Josef Limburg, noted German sculptor, portraying an army horse in the last stages of exhaustion in the service of man, and make it the center piece of a fountain which will also contain plastic pictures of horses in the various functions for which they are used in the army.

The Limburg statue has acquired fame for its artistry, portraying in the exhaustion of the horse all the exhaustion and suffering of the war.

'Enemies of Women' At Richmond Today

"Enemies of Women," Cosmopolitan's picture of the war novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish novelist, is to be shown at the Richmond Theatre today and tomorrow, after unusually successful showings on Broadway. In Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston and other cities.

Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens head a notable cast. Other players in the picture are Pedro de Cordoba, Gareth Hughes, Gladys Hulette, the late William H. Thompson, William Callier, Jr., and Van Linow.

"Enemies of Women," which has been rated by photoplay critics as one of the finest productions of the year, contains numerous scenes actually "shot" in Monte Carlo and Paris. The scenes, especially the sinking of a U-boat submarines, are declared to be unimpaired. Since the settings were directed by Joseph Urban, reports of their magnificence and lavishness may be accepted as accurate.

The action of the story takes place in Russia, Paris, the war front, and Monte Carlo. Barrymore gives one of the finest characterizations of his illustrious acting career. It is said.

CARMEN HAVE NEW UNIFORMS FOR BIG GAME

All baseball fans of Richmond are informed that hereafter the "Penny Chasers" are to be known as the "Richmond Keys."

This announcement was made by Manager Tex Brown last night after a meeting of the company in Oakland yesterday, during which it was announced that the company would provide new uniforms for the team on the local team. In view of the generosity of the Key Route Transit company in furnishing the suits, it was decided that the name "Penny Chasers" was hardly suitable for a nine representing this company. Hence the change.

The suits which have been picked out are to be grey, with the name "Richmond" in large black letters across the front of the shirt, while underneath that is to be a large red key, familiar to every resident of this community.

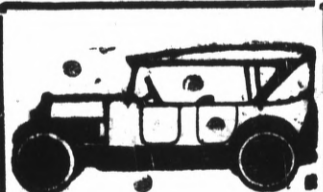

The first time these suits are to make their public appearance will be on next Friday morning, May 1, at 10 o'clock sharp, when at the First street park, the Richmond Keys and the Richmond Fire department will be seen in action in their long scheduled combat.

Tex Brown has announced that he received word from Coombs, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, who is now employed at the eastern division of the company, that he will be here and ready for action bright and early Friday morning. Coombs has been working hard in anticipation of this day and reports that he is as fit as the proverbial fiddle.

The Firemen have not yet announced their lineup but it will probably be nearly the same as on the memorable day when they crushed the Policemen in defeat.

It is also rumored that the Firemen themselves will spring their new spring baseball suits on this occasion. If they do, it is doubtful if the bleachers will be able to stand the glare from the two sets of uniforms.

Both teams and their managers are confident of victory and this will probably be as good, if not a better game than the Police-Firemen encounter some weeks ago.

All work guaranteed.

Merchants Beat Firemen Second Team by 18 to 6

Richmond businessmen yesterday defeated the Firemen's second team by the score of 18 to 6 at the First street park.

They were justly proud as they have labored through some stunning disasters this season. Yesterday morning at the First street ball park they waded into the famous B. P. team of the Richmond fire department and after nine starvas of bitter struggle they found to their great surprise that they had 18 runs to their opponent's 6.

Up to the seventh inning it looked as if it was to be a shut-out to the credit of the Merchants with J. E. Hill performing like a Johnson in the box and going strong. When one of the score keepers way out in center field came rushing in and announced the lack of goose eggs, Hill became sorry for the boy and allowed the Yannigans to get the only six runs they ever got.

POLICE GIVE ENTERTAINMENT AT LIONS CLUB

The members of the Lions club were entertained yesterday by members of the Richmond police department in an exhibition of jiu-jitsu as used by policemen throughout the country. Chief of Police Dan Cox arranged for the demonstration, which was under the direction of H. R. Hamilton, a specialist in the Japanese art, who is training the local policemen. Inspector Jones, Sergeant Crozier, and Officers Donnelly and Gray gave the demonstration. The chairman of the day was R. L. Armstrong.

Several vocal solos were rendered by Archie Winchell, popular tenor. A short talk was given by Jess Robinson, past international president of the Lions club, who was a visitor at the meeting. Secretary A. C. Paris called attention to the observance of American Forest Week, which aims to secure public education along means of prevention of forest fires. Action was taken approving a plan to plant a permanent Christmas tree in Memorial Park as an Arbor Day event under the auspices of the Lions club.

"Clinton Smith, chairman of the ticket sales committee for the Boy Scout benefit show at the California theatre next Saturday, reported a good sized sale of tickets for the big event."

Hoboes Convention Coming Thursday

The final touches on the arrangements for the big show, the Hobo's Convention, which will present a remarkable program at the Lincoln auditorium on Thursday evening, are being made. This is one of the best shows of the season and it is felt that Richmond is indeed fortunate in securing a book here.

The show is being put on for the benefit of the Carman's relief fund, under the charge of "Tex" Brown. Brown reports he has seen this company perform on previous occasions and declares he has seldom seen its equal in real comedy productions.

Work is now going on at the auditorium of the Lincoln school on the decorating and getting the place in complete readiness for the "convention" when it arrives here tomorrow morning.

RAGS WANTED—Record-Herald

Six Candidates

home building, as he considered the home builder one of the most important factors in the growth of a city. Bevins spoke of his Americanism, by referring to the fact that his ancestors fought in the revolutionary war. The speaker also said that he was in favor of providing the best school system possible, so that the children of the city could have every possible advantage in the way of securing an education.

MRS. MATTIE A. CHANDLER

As the second speaker, Mrs. Mattie A. Chandler, present councilwoman, and a candidate to succeed herself, was introduced. In a very pleasing and charming manner, she thanked the club for the opportunity of appearing at the meeting, and said that she was sure the club would be a great factor in the affairs of the city.

"I have resided in this city for the past fourteen years," said Mrs. Chandler, "and during that time having been a taxpayer, have always been interested in the welfare and growth of Richmond. I have the utmost faith in the future of this city, and will endeavor in every way to aid in its upbuilding. Anything that is for the benefit of the majority you can count on me for assistance. I have always tried to live up to the Golden Rule, and if elected will serve you as faithfully as I can. I have made no promises, and have given no pledges, and am free to serve you according to my best judgment. The flag standing by my side, and the constitution which backs it up, with freedom of speech and freedom of thought means much to me. If you feel that I am capable of serving you, I will feel honored by receiving your votes. I promise you I will do the best I know how."

JOHN L. COLLINS

John L. Collins, the next candidate stated that he had been a resident of Richmond for the past twelve years, originally starting in the plumbing business at 210 Macdonald avenues and afterwards removing to 252 Seventeenth street. He believed he had made a success of his business, and that if elected he would give the public the benefit of his experience. Collins stated the present plumbing ordinance of Richmond was partially due to his efforts, and it had been copied by many of the bay section cities. He was also for parks playgrounds, and bathhouses.

At this point in the program the audience was entertained with vocal solos by Irma Randolph, with Aurora Thompson at the piano, both of the numbers being very much enjoyed by those present.

W. L. LANE

Councilman William L. Lane told the audience that he was not much in a mood to make a talk, as he had just returned from saying the last farewell to one of the best mothers that ever lived. "My public record," said Mr. Lane, "speaks for itself." In serving you as a member of the council I have always tried to do what was right and just, and give everyone a square deal. I believe in government and honesty in politics. Those who know me need no introduction to me. I have been a resident of Richmond since 1901, and have always stood for everything that was for the advancement of Richmond and her people. If re-elected I promise you that I will accord you the same fair, honest treatment in the future that I have given you in the past."

W. W. SCOTT

"I have been a member of the council for the past six years," said councilman W. W. Scott, when he was introduced, "and most of you know what my record has been. I can see Richmond one of the leading cities of the state in the future. One of the great troubles of the council is that enough of the people of the city do not attend. I would like to see you all out there every Monday night and take part in the discussions. Possibly during my term of office, I have made mistakes, but if I have, I made them in doing what I considered was right. We all make mistakes."

The last speaker of the evening was John P. Strop, who is making his maiden bow in politics, so far as city matters are concerned. He went straight at his subject by saying that he believed a candidate should have a platform on which he should stand and tell of the things that he thought should be carried out for the best interests of the city.

"First I believe in the development of the water front, make a first
